As she stands alone in the distance his eyes move and she's caught in the sights.

Another game of usury and confusion.

And every step is further from the knife and closer to the blade.

To win her body like a trophy and dismiss the rest to fade.

Rest to fade.

But this is not one of those instances I stand aside ad
leave things up to chance as you walk into danger.

When there are lives at stake I cannot let you go this way.

Down the path of confusion.

You'd shrug it off the morning after as you drive her out of your life.

But you can't look into her eyes.

And something sacred becomes a cheap joke when you're out with your friends.

You'll confuse her and forget her and destroy this precious gem.

Rest to fade.

But this is not one of those instances I stand aside ad
leave things up to chance as you walk into danger.

When there are lives at stake I cannot let you go this
way.

Down the path of confusion.

But you're the one confused with all your time and all your lessons.

You choose to not be careful.

And you're the one confused with all your crimes and all your bridges burned.

Still you choose to walk this line
