Some things you never get used to

It's the same routine of getting up every morning
And putting on a smile
But under me, there's another person
Who can't find a reason to make living worthwhile

Oh, another day to get through Without the love that once was mine
Sometimes, I think my heartaches come to an end
And then, something brings 'em all back again

Like wanting you and not having you, I'll never get used to

I've gotten used to not listening
For familiar sounds you used to make
Now, I'm trying to get out of the habit
Of calling your name first thing when I awake, look here

It's like a child's first step
I have to learn to walk all, all over again
'Cause you were always there if I should fall
And now, there's nobody else that I can call

It's like wanting you and not having you, I'll never get used to

Lost in a crowd, I think I caught a glimpse of you
Blindly, I rush to touch your hand, huh
To discover it's my mind playing tricks on me again

Some things you never get used to
Sometimes, I think my heartaches come to an end
And then, something brings 'em all back again

Like wanting you and not having you, I'll never get used to

And it's wanting you and not having you, I'll never get used to Look here

Oh, I'm wanting you and not having you, I'll never get used to
