Anything you can see
You can probably feel
Anyone who is far
You can probably charge at

Hold tight
Remember today
Anything you can grasp
You can easily pass
To the ashtray

Anything you can break
You can probably mend
Anything you can feel
You can feel again

Hold tight remember today
Anything you can climb
You can easily watch
Crumble away

And I would give
The last shred
Of my broken head
For the songs you say
And the words you sing

I felt the night
Open my eyes and
I find the morning
Paralyzing

It's only who we are
It's only who we are

Anything you can see
You can probably feel
Anyone who is far
You can probably charge at

Hold tight

Remember today
Anything you can climb
You can easily watch
Crumble away

Anything you can break
You can probably mend
Anything you can feel
You can feel again

Hold tight
Remember today
Anything you can grasp
You can easily see
Is just plastic

And I would give
The last shred
Of my broken head
For the songs you say
And the words you sing

I felt your light
Burn my days and
I know it only
Separates us

It's only who we are
It's only who we are
It's only who we are

Not what you say
Or what I sing
But who we are
Who we are

Not what we claim to be
Or we hope to see
Just the songs we say
And the words we sing
