

The Transit War

"Embrace My Soul"

Visit "Embrace My Soul" on MotoLyrics.com

When a village's shadow shines in the rain
When your long lashes curve gracefully as you sleep on this dreary morning
Even in the neglected existence I've half-heartedly lived
It is only when your heartbeat becomes the pulse of my life
That I am able to live through the day again

We float side by side on the waves we imprinted on the sheets
Leaving my clothes off, I pour coffee into a cup?

Protect my soul with your embrace My heart was dyed and thrown away in the city, but the traces of those stains
Are erased by your fingertips

Protect my soul with your embrace
I lived selfishly, caring only for myself and doing things my way
But to be held against you?

That passionate summer ? white sand and your Kiss
But even heat fades, and the only thing left in this clear autumn is our love
When life gets tough, just the fact that you're beside me?
If I have someone to share my pain with, it's more than enough

Protect my soul with your embrace
Embrace me with your warm two hands
Without any style, without any pretty packaging
The real me is standing before you

Protect my soul with your embrace
Read my mind
The words I can't say, the words I treasured You're looking into my eyes now Forever, just like this moment

Visit The Transit War page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

MotoLyrics.com | Lyrics, music videos, artist biographies, releases and more.