

The Tuna Helpers "Haloing Moons"

Visit "Haloing Moons" on MotoLyrics.com

Haloing moons with her radio sighs
She's melting our brains
With her shiny blue eyes
Pockets are purring with ribbons of hearts
They're sewn to her chest
Where her love fell apart
Hold her hands
You know we're sometimes afraid
The sky looks so big
But the stars promise
To help you find your way
Her Jack is in the box
He's been quiet for days
Her Jill has a skill
With her running away
All of her friends where have they been
She is melting our brains
With her shiny blue eyes
Hold her hands
She could choke you if she tried
We are so tired
The stars blink and nod to say goodbye
Wink blink nod goodbye

Visit The Tuna Helpers page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.