They don't get that you don't have to get it
You don't have to put everything to words
And sometimes I dream of that moment that I confessed
You turned away from everything
You turned and walked away from me

Wont you sing along with the music in my head?
My voice is gone and it's getting lonely
Those nights in the cold with nothing to hold
I wouldn't change a thing for them if I could do it all again
Go to the second star on the right
I don't want to lose you, don't want to lose you

You promised that you would wait for me forever
But now when I see you, you look older everyday
A teardrop falling from your eye
By now you forgot how to fly
... I guess I'm leaving neverland for good
