"Down By the Sea"

Down by the sea
I found your hidden treasure
Just you and me
We overdosed on pleasure

Yonnie's in the wind
We're rugging up for winter
Putting out the bins
In cold and windy weather

Down by the docks
Live all the silent sea-ships
Crates are stored on blocks
Where now only the rats live

Sail me down the river
Till we reach the shore
Diving into the center
Eating out the core

Down on the beach
Saluting captain Benbow
Always out of reach
It's quiet when the tide's low

Climbing up the cliffs
You can see for miles far
The boat that ran adrift to the [Incomprehensible]
Is sitting on the sandbar

Laughing at the waves
That storm, the river mouth
The ice is on the move now
Creeping north and south

Down by the sea
I found your hidden treasure
Just you and me
We over-dosed on pleasure

Listen to your heart
Screaming at the sky

Can't you feel it tremble?
Don't you wonder why?
