Nothing looks the same
I don't remember landing here i feel so far from home when all that i can see is everything you know and everything i own takes a hold of me take me back there in your arms show me a place where i will fall where everything i see big is small and all that i know is taken from my hand and i can hardly stand take me back there with you there's no where left to run everything is gone again and all you hate surrounds and all that I can see is everything you know and I'll be around everywhere you go take me with you in you're arms where i run to, you'll know all around me you call it's the same place that I'll stay everywhere you go I'll call
