(Verse 1)

If I failed at not being a friend, would you still be true to me and stay with me.

Because no one else been there for me, like you. You barely knew me, but the friendship we both built came instantly.

(Chorus 2)

If I failed at not being a friend, not understanding you, not hearing you out, will you walk away from me?

(Verse 2)

If I failed at showing how much I cared, would you still be next to me and fight with me, through my struggles. I can't do it by myself, and the battle got me caught me up. But with you, you're the one that I really need.

(Chorus 2)

If I failed at showing you how much I cared, or telling you how much you mean to me, will you still love me, liked I love you.

(Verse 3)

If I failed at being the best, will you still be on my tail and remember my name. Because I won't give up and let you down.

I put hard effort into what I do, and my doubts are never limited. The hope you put in me, Made me change my expectation of life.

I'm the storyteller, just letting my readers know that I might become a best seller of bringing inspiration back into this world

(Chorus 3)

If I failed at being the best of what I can be, with you all still appreciate the stories that I tell.
