Describing my life as a metaphor or simile this will reveal the topic to me from beginning to end, it's over now I just want a friend who will help me out with these problems, but then I didn't receive kisses from the angels of above, when in reality I want my education so bad but first I gotta stay in school and do the right thing, as I live on the facts am telling now is true so believe or not I need someone to depend on, and to lay my head on your shoulder, so what is the point of living this dropouts do not achieve as much as we do, because they turn to the wrong road for help, my brain won't function if I am looking stupid or dumb as I can be.

Nothing doesn't seem right,

nothing am still going blind, nothing please tell me who could I be,

nothing make's sense anymore,

nothing I just wanna bring you back into this world, nothing nothing nothing will ever change for me again.

Missing the final exam on that day so what does this expression mean to you anyway,

I am sorry for everything I had done to you in the past, all my life and at school I have been a failure because my grades were dropping down real low, losing those thoughts so am still just breaking down, all I ever wanted was to be hug and loved again by everybody I know, but who really cares about me though.

Nothing doesn't seem right,

nothing please tell me who could I be,

nothing make's sense anymore,

nothing I just wanna bring you back into this world,

nothing nothing nothing will ever change for me again.
