He walks into the room
doesn't even know his name he's looking for the answer his family's to blame
we all know where he came from
and who he's looking for uncovering the window you watch out for the door in and out the thing goes back and forth the looks flow he walks into the kitchen doesn't even know the score I try to look him in the eyes he looks towards the floor he's only doing what he knows in the way that he knows best the doctor felt quite confident he passed the entrance test
he's standing by the canopy thirty paces from the door he's looking at your shoulder that means he wants some more don't give him what he came for don't let him know you care if he looks at you just look away he can't tell from over there
back and forth the looks flow
I'm covering the window
you watch out for the door
he walks into your bedroom checks the posters on the wall he's looking through the closet looking for something small he looks inside your handbag he rips apart your drawers he asks you for a crowbar wants to check beneath the floors
