"Oh Stacey (Look What You've Done!)"

Oh Stacey look what you've done,
You think that you're the only one . . .

Well, she should've went to school
And she should've made it through
But she never

And she should've studied hard
And she should've played the part
But she never

Oh and she should have kept her head
And got out of bed
More in the mornings

And she should've had her day
Should have done it her way
But she never
Oh Yeah

She made her Father worry 'til he was sick
Found him on the couch one night cold and stiff
Now she drinks away the will and she's not proud of it

Oh Stacey look what you've done,
You think that you're the only one . . .

Oh she should've had more time
To get to know the world
A little better

And she should've had more friends,
To glue her brain and stick it back together

But she had to go around
And disagree with everyone she knew

And now all her friends
They're gonna help her spend the fortune

Oh yeah

She made her Father worry 'til he was sick
Found him on the couch one night cold and stiff
Now she drinks away the will and she's not proud of it

Oh?.

Wasn't always gonna be this way,
It didn't have to daunt her
But I knew that's what she'd say

I will put the flowers on
And visit every week
But that won't wake your father from his every lasting sleep

She made her Father worry 'til he was sick
Found him on the couch one night cold and stiff
Now she drinks away the will and she's not proud of it

Oh Stacey look what you've done,
You think that you're the only one . . .
Stacey
Oh Stacey
Oh Stacey
Oh Stacey
Oh Stacey
Oh Stacey
Oh Stacey, look what you've done
Stacey,
Oh Stacey
Oh Stacey
Oh Stacey
Oh Stacey
Oh Stacey, you think that you're the only one

Oh Stacey, look what you've done ..
