Well I'm sure there's someone watching over me at night while I'm sleeping
'Cos no harm ever seems to come to me at night while I'm sleeping

They never let me wake to see who could be standing and guarding me
And when the morning comes they never seem to stick around

I see demons and spies with cyclops eyes at night while I'm sleeping
And girls with claws and blood stained floors at night
while I'm sleeping
I see bullets of steel and they clip my heels at night
while I'm sleeping
And all the blades they spin and slit my skin at night
while I'm sleeping

I must have had a hundred fights and changed dark into light
But when I awoke all this violence and pain was alright

I'm gonna wait alone under my sheets and pretend to close my eyes
And I will wait until the sun comes up, I will wait all night I don't care if you don't come and show yourself 'cause I know you're always near me And when it's dark again I'll count to ten and you'll be standing by me
