This was the city of angels

Or so it seemed

Hollywood sold out to kings

And raised a generation (a generation)

On malnourished magazines

She fights her mirrors with two left hands,

Hotels and heroin

While making love to his best friend

Don't sit tight, don't pretend this song's not about you

You're not invincible, you're not invincible.

Hey don't you wanna save the world tonight?

This city's at its throat and I'm not

Ready to die.

Say don't you wanna save the world tonight?

If living the high life, to see what life is like

Then you've already died.

Please take this veil and make it white

A victim to her cries from all his lies

When you sleep and you cheat

Then you burn, it's your turn

To collide

Killing her inside

Scratching out your eyes

He begs for difference to know he can

Hotels and heroin

While making love to her best friend

Don't sit tight, don't pretend this song's not about you

You're not invincible, you're not invincible

Hey don't you wanna save the world tonight?

This city's at its throat and I'm not

Ready to die.

Say don't you wanna save the world tonight?

If living the high life, to see what life is like

Then you've already died.

Hey don't you wanna save the world tonight?

This city's at its throat and I'm not

Ready to die.

Say don't you wanna save the world tonight?

If living the high life, to see what life is like

Then you've already died.

Don't say, don't say

Don't say you won't live forever

Don't say, don't say

Don't say it cause

I don't believe you.
