A: "I hope that when you get home the things that we've said are still gonna be said.

Even though we both know our mouths have tendencies to hold back."

B: "I just want you to know that I've tried so hard to explain myself this time.

There's no easy way for me to say what I am, what I'm thinking or what I'm feeling so

Forgive me for these actions but the accusations are correct."

So my dear

(Goodnight goodbye)

And it fell

And they pulled his words like her limbs from the rubble

Oh they crushed like lovers fit for battle

And they held a fourth floor burial in her name

And then the rain created rhythms to comfort all the bodies

To wash away her story

And they fell

But the pictures proved to show it all

As her cry dies out along with

The oath they swore would never fall

What I'm thinking or what I'm feeling so

Forgive me for these actions but the accusations are correct

Her cry dies out with the covenant they swore would never fall apart
