When I open my eyes all I can see are shortcomings and how great this could be
If we'd just learn to change how we look at each other
Time slows, we already know that every things not lost
Speed it up
This cycle kills
Leave your comfort zone
Put yourself out there if you wanna know
There's more to life than doing what you want
Keep it simple stupid
Just open up your window
There's a big world out there
And pound for pound we'll gain experience
You'll live a full life
Lead a full life
Time slows, we already know
Don't spend your life wondering
We learn best from experience
There's a big world out there
It's big out there
As I'm thrust through a black hole all I can see are billions of stars moving faster than the speed of light
I feel immense pressure on the shell of my body
As I break through the atmosphere air fills my lungs
