All of the flowers in bloom
She took away her sweet love when she died
And all of the flowers have been put into the garage
So now do I dance with these fools
All of my life I'm fallen to get her heart
Over and over and over and ov'

Though I made her seem lucky in my arms
Made her a promise more than once

I promised her love
She keeps on knocking but she can't get in
And though I promised her love
She keeps on knocking but she can't get in
And though I promised her love
Over and over and over again
Over and over and over again
Over and over

So what do I do with these tears
She wonders why I get all against her heart
And how can I tell her I love her the way I treat her

Though I made it seem honest more than once

I promised her love
She keeps on knocking but she can't get in
And though I promised her love
She keeps on knocking but she can't get in
And though I promised her love
She keeps on knocking but she can't get in
I promised her love
She keeps on knocking but she can't get in
And though I promised her love, sweet love, sweet love...

(Oh love... oh love...)

Over and over and over again
Over and over and over again
Over and over

All the flowers in bloom
I've never seen such beauty in my life
In all of the daydreams
All of the kids get to play Lalalalalala...
