There are leaders and those who only wish to follow and be fed
And there are strangers with stolen power and there are reasons that come tomorrow
And is it nature's way for you to run today and be free
Do you want to be a legend or a passing footprint on the sands of time
Do you want to be a failure or the best example of a man who lived to use his mind Imagine what you could be

And there are rebels who can't be silenced, they remind us how to see And there are prophets, believing visions while many others put trust in science And there are dreamers who must get through to your soul
Do you want to be a legend or a passing footprint on
the sands of time
Do you want to be a failure or the best example of a man who lived to use his mind Imagine what you could be with that feeling of symmetry
And your eye for beauty and you've faith in the impossible
Imagine what you could be

There are lovers of skills forgotten by great people, in their haste
But there is no one who knows what you know and that's the knowledge you shouldn't waste And teachers point the way but only you can find the place
Do you want to be a legend or a passing footprint on
the sands of time
Do you want to be a failure or the best example of a man who lived to use his mind
Imagine what you could be

Do you want to be a legend or a passing footprint on

the sands of time, just use your mind
Do you want to be a failure or the best example of a man who use his mind
Do you want to be a legend or a passing footprint on
the sands of time, just use your mind
Do you want to be a failure or the best example of a man who use his mind
Do you want to be a legend or a passing footprint on
the sands of time, just use your mind
Do you want to be a failure or the best example of a man who use his mind
