When did I start to learn?
I'm bleeding in this game
'Cause she uses boys like bandages
But the wounds remain the same

And I hope you find it through
This endless wandering

And I'm missing you for so long
You're a question mark and a scar
And you twist me up like a tourniquet
'Til I don't know who we are
I know chasing after you won't change a thing

And I hope you find it through
This endless wandering

Change everything I know
She won't let me come
And she won't let me go

Let me come inside, inside
Let me come inside, inside

I was late and my face was wet
Tow up in a private jet
Spiraling down with a cigarette
Where we going now? 'Cause I forget

And I gotta get it all but it takes a toll
Well, I guess you'll have to grow a soul
Dark side giving me such a pull, such a pull

And if it's a water landing
Then it's a, it's a water landing

Put on your life vest only if told to do so
Well, I'm telling you now
Strap it across your chest
Prepare yourself for impending death

You and me are nose-diving at the speed of whiplash

Life flashes by in an endless plane crash
Muffled I love you through an oxygen mask
On my face, brace, brace

And the cabin erupts with religious conversions
God's sick joke as we lose the engines
Some people scream, some people are gracious
And the reason's the same
'Cause the sky outside is so spacious, it's so spacious

So if it's a water landing
Then it's a, it's a water landing
If it's a water landing
Then it's a, it's a water landing

And it's coming inside, inside
It's coming inside, inside
