What ever happened to a good old fashioned punk rock show?

Seems all my favorite bands just curled up and died
And every venue in this town closed long ago
'cause everyone turned emo, sat at home, and cried

At least when they were hardcore
They had something to fight for Now all they do is whine
So emo boy who broke your heart?
I hope it was your girlfriend
The one who once was mine
Back when punk rock was cool

And keeping up with all these kids is impossible
By the time i hear a new band they're already cliche Look down at me while you're tearing up your spectacles
And sit at home and cry on make out club all day

Well this is where i stop please let me off

So emo boy cry me a river
At least your scene is still alive
And at least you've got a girlfriend
Just like i did in '95
Back when punk rock was cool
