Setting me up, letting me down
It seems you're constantly forgetting that you need to be around
Just when i really need your help, i don't know what to do
It's getting harder every time being forgotten by you
So now i'm all alone waiting, by the phone again
And it's no use to track you down, i'm calling all your friends
But it's the same old story, none of them have a clue
But if they do it to me, they're gonna do it to you

Let it fall apart
Finish what you start
When everything is lost
We both swallow the cost
Start making up your mind
Stop wasting all my time
My time... what are you gonna do

Tomorrow you'll pretend like there was no yesterday
Intimidated by your beauty, i'll have no words to say And we'll go on like nothing happened the way we always do
Until that tragic day comes, when it happens to you
So how can i just pretend that you don't know me
I want to see things only you can show me
I'm trying so hard just to work this out
But you're so unpredictable can't figure it out
