When youre broken and bruised and got nothing to lose
Youre sitting there silent busy still licking your wounds, ah, ah
Drained and tired but still standing as though it would seem Tuning in and out of life if it were a dream, ah, ah
Why wont you tell me its not a big surprise?

This dose must have been a sugar pill
It never was, never is and never will
This dose must have been a sugar pill
And when its done leaves you wanting something real

Its false sense of time that got you by for a while Not knowing that youre sinking deeper in denial, ah, ah
A hundred thoughts running through your head at a time
Youre shrugging off acting like your memories just fine,
ah, ah
Why cant you tell me its not a big surprise?

Go toe to toe you cant take me
Go blow for blow you wont break me (Break 1)
Show me what you got, well give me everything Show me what you got
I know just what you are thinking
I know your dreams and aspirations
I know the credits wont include me
I know, that you know
I know just what you are taking
I know it is me that is forsaken
I know the struggle that is endless
I know that you know, that you know.
A losing battle that for which I have no clue to win
Its getting to me crawling up underneath my skin, ah,
ah
Another hour and that will be all I can get To see what is miserable look into the eyes of regret,
ah, ah
Why wont you tell me the truth?

I know just what you are feeling
I know the scene and implications
I know the struggle will continue
I know that you know
I know just what you are taking
I know its wrong and its broken
I know you cant and wont change it
I know that you, that you know
