There's always a reminder, a brief affair
And she put it behind her like I was never there
I made for light conversation and nothing more
But her lack of education was harder to ignore

Silence shatters every single word I've said to you
I keep trying to think of every single
Way we can manage to collide

I took her to destinations to change it up
But after several locations I said I'd seen enough It's not you it's me, it's not you it's me, it's not you it's me
Let's make this less complicated than it needs to be

Silence shatters every single word I've said to you
I keep trying to think of every single
Way we can manage to collide

Way we can manage to collide

Silence shatters everything I've said to you
I keep trying to think of every single
Way we can manage to collide
