There went the fact that you're not alone
Cover every detail, tell those secrets you tell
Capture every motion overload
While the acts of desperation only go so far

As the sea of moaners press against my head dividing changing course like the current that past through that keep leading back to you and I won't deny I've seen enough

I can't deny I've seen enough for a lifetime
But not this time

There went the fact that you're not alone
Cover every detail, tell those secrets you tell
Capture every motion overload
While the acts of desperation only go so far

When these new obsessions make their way into your possession
It becomes a novelty, just a petty little thing

and I won't deny, I've seen enough
For a lifetime, but not this time

There went the fact that you're not alone
Cover every detail, tell those secrets you tell
Capture every motion overload
While the acts of desperation only go so far

When you put yourself out there too soon
I was making ways to get to you

I can recognize when this began
When you leave the ones,
The ones you call your friends Come on back to me and we'll transcend
