Basking in the raging flames of failed expectation
Is where I'll be found
My epiphany comes while the clock ticks down
I try to brace myself but I'm still fucked
Take it out on me I'll take the fall
But always remember that no one is as disappointed as I am
But I'm unwilling to take that step
So brace yourself for the impact
Soon hindsight will give you way to a clearer present
And a moment of truth will at last be at our door
So brace yourself for the impact
Come face to face with what tears us down clawed our way back, back to the surface
Only to find that we can't have It's too late, it's over
Forsaken
We leave empty handed
All we've seen
What's come before
Were still not ready
Our new found extinction
