And I'll always be here and I'll always see things your way. Just stay here. And I'll say I can't live without you for another week cause I'm losing sleep and I can't let this go. (I'm losing Sleep and I don't think that you care).

Now I know you never loved me; it was all just pretend. But don't you know, one day your time will come around? And I'll be there waiting at the door, would you even let me in?

Light me up and let me down.
(You're watching now but you could never watch me before).
Cause loving you's like playing with fire.

And I'll take your answers to the grave (you'll never come back, you'll never come back). But you burned my love letters anyway (you'll never come back, you'll never come back). And I hate your face cause you've taken the place of everything I know and I won't let this go.

Now I know you never loved me; it was all just pretend. Don't you know one day your time will come around? Can't you see? You see what you do to me?
And watch us burn!

Don't leave, don't leave.
I'll burn without you.

She sets my heart on fire.
Tonight we see what you've become.
