Grandma' welcome home
You have been gone for far too long
Is this a dream, are you really back?

Let me help you out of the chair...
Grandma'
Let me touch you, let me feel
Ahhh

Grandma' take a look
What do you think of the house and the silvery moon?
We are going to repaint the front door soon

Let me help you out of the chair...
Grandma'
Let me touch you, let me feel
Ahhh

Wait till you see your room, up in the attic
Prepared just like you said
Without a bed
You will find your rocking chair
And the tea pot that Missy found

Let me help you out of the chair...
Grandma'
There is someone waiting for you
Now come along

Missy and mother, they are dying to meet you
How strange, she's spoken no word
I wonder Grandma', are you all right?

Grandma' what was it like to be on that holiday site?
"Oh it could have been worse but with "Them" by my side
In the twilight "They" sang all the old lullabies"
Grandma' who are "They"?
"Never mind you dirty little brat"

"Let us go inside, something's on "Their" mind

"They" are still alive
Can you feel "Their" eyes
Can you feel "Their" eyes?
Now that you are stuck with me you better be my friend!"
