Should I let you in, into my house with its concrete walls?

Should I let you in, into my room with its curtains drawn?

I want to open up and let you walk right through my door

Can you tell me, is it worth it, the risk any more?

Should I let you in?

Should I let you in?

Should I let you in?

Should I let you in?

Should I let you in, into my far from perfect place?

Should I let you see where I keep my secrets safe?

I want to open up, but I've been hurt this way before

Can you tell me, is it worth the risk any more?

Should I let you in?

Should I let you in?

Should I let you in?

Should I let you in?

Through my window, I see you now

You're looking in, I'm looking out

My heart will make up its mind somehow

Should I let you in, into my house?

Should I let you in, inside these walls?

Should I let you in, into my heart?

Should I let you in, inside my world?

Should I let you in?

Should I let you in?

Should I let you in?
