The streets will never shine
I'll hang on every word that would open up the sky
The lessons that we've learned just to waste such precious lives
In parking lots and breakings hearts, we can keep these scars alive
From when we were seventeen and all of our days were golden

I hope you know you've made a lasting impression These thoughts of you tonight are well worth the mention
I'll stay up again I can leave the lights on for you
You'll find your way back home

So hopeless and torn
We may never come back home
So fragile and worn
But will you be there to show?
I can still feel your light
And you're right here by my side
We'll reminisce on times well spent
And try not to sing the songs of our past regret

Here we are at the edge of the world
Where dusk draws near for these lovers' tears
They glisten like stars with the sun rise
Just to prove that you're still here
And I'll hold my breath until I see you there

With wing hidden words, an angel with a heart beat Taught us to follow these city lights, they burn with violence
In our final days living life like hopeless romantics

Keep us young
Keep us classic
This vision's nothing short of passion
You died for our dream; we've made quite a scene
We've made quite a scene

Here we are at the edge of the world

Where dusk draws near for these lovers' tears
They glisten like stars with the sun rise
Just to prove that you're still here
And I'll hold my breath until I see you there

Look at the clock it's 11:11, you tell me it will be alright
We won't take today for granted, you know that with your last breath you bring us to life

Here we are at the edge of the world
Where dusk draws near for these lovers' tears
They glisten like stars with the sun rise
Just to prove that you're still here
And I'll hold my breath until I see you there
Always remember
You're never forgotten
