(Merle Haggard)

Nothing's worse than losing something worked it all
After giving what you know to be your very own
To sit and watch a love grow cold hurts me deep down in my soul
Nothing's worse than losing something worth it all.

I can't help but cry a little now and then While I watch my whole world tumble to the ground again
I've been down this road before and I can't stand the pain no more
Nothing's worse than losing something worth it all.

I changed my way of life to try to fit your style
And you only meant to stay with me a little while I gave you all I had to give now I don't even want to live Nothing's worse than losing something worth it all, yeah.

I've been down this road before and I can't stand the
pain no more
Nothing's worse than losing something worth it all.

Nothing's worse than losing something worth it all.
