Love, what a kind word
a word so full of life It often brings tears of joy to those who try and fly by those who never seem to embrace the joy that one word can bring yet, should every day feel like spring?

Is love so sweet without the bitterness of a souls broken, lonely heart for how can one fully enjoy the highs of love when they haven't been to the depths of sorrow

placing worth upon a soul who feels worthless otherwise those who never seem to be hurting are usually the ones that need us most yet, should we ever lose hope? no!

and although the pain brings tears of discomfort hope still lingers love is strong, love is deep, love is pure, love will keep you afloat in a sea of unhope so "find thy love", Shakespeare wrote and follow that dream to keep you afloat
