And if I never spoke a word again, but this I need to say. I criticized and analyzed you - that's worthless from today on, cause I changed my attitude, forgive me father - I was rude ! Man I think I made you feel no good - the victim of my moods ! I was such a teenage-little brat, no appreciation for what you did... that's how it seemed to you, but I just needed you to take me in your arms - keep me warm ! Forever - you'll be to me, much more than I show you, so much more than you see. Whenever - we may disagree, it's like losing a part that once belonged to me.

In childhood-days I had to be much more of you, much less than me. I'd like to be just like my dad I swore, you meant the world to me. But something changed my attitude, I know myself if this is good or bad or anything to me - oh father, let me be ! I was such a dumb-ass little kid, no appreciation for what you did... that's how it seemed to you, but I just needed you to take me in your arms - keep me warm !

The further I'm away, the more I'd love to stay, cause I had to learn today, that now I love what I used to hate! wouldn't it be nice, if we both hadn't changed and parts of our lives could have been rearranged. Now it's got to be too late to erase the past, think about the future, think about the past, think about it fast... as long as we have each other... as long as we have each other... as long as I don't have to be what you want me to be !

Dad - please hold me ! Dad - please keep me ! Dad - please love me ! But I will never be like you
