A dream I saw in a curtain of treachery between wolf's teeth it watched me deadly this flame made fresh ruins, and war reigned supreme in every beast's core Ages of darkness took upon the earth shadows glared on each evil birth Horned black riders rode under the stars Sun was unseen through mists of war Red steam rose to paint men's faces Horrible creatures raised to kill their children and from sky and earth lightning struck the living to burn, I rape and melt the ashes, of those once seeing

All shades of white descended to wither colours of flesh and blood made men shiver the riders pillaged and slayed meat and drank from the weeping heads with ease
