I've got a question,
Have you learned your lesson?
'Cause you left me guessin' last time
It was a blessing in disguise, the day you opened my eyes
To what was always a fake
And I was just wonderin' why you left me stumblin'
When my whole world was crumblin' down?
I'm faithfully broken from this new life you've chosen
Now I'm done hoping for this

You pass me by, You pass me by
What's passing by?
My time
[X2]

I remember you
And you remember me
And I would think you, would say goodbye
You never left a call, you never left a note
And everything there was became a lie

Easy to betray when you're changing day to day
And you don't mean the things that you said
Someday you will find that you've been left behind
And there's no life in lying in bed

You pass me by, You pass me by
What's passing by?

What was that?

I remember you
And you remember me
And I would think you, would say goodbye
And everything there was became a lie
Now you owe me back,
But you'll never change
So I'm not here for your foolish games
And since the day you left

I've learned a couple things
You take life up and tickle me pink
[X2]

You've tickled me pink
