one woman one child,
just holding onto one another new to this thing called life what will they do?

little tears falling all around the little girl, as she is watching tears falling from her mothers eye why does it hurt so much to be loved by somebody?

looking all round the streets watching people walking by, is there anybody in the world that cares anymore, all they wanted was a new life in the world, why can't anybody give them a chance, girl looks at there hands in their pockets, wondering if change would fall out, , come on give us a chance, hunger pains grow in their hearts for better things to come their way she can see the stars in her little girls eyes being a singer, doctor, or maybe being a woman card board sign in mothers hand reads need help, need money to survive, and hope is still strong,

looking all round the streets watching people walking
by, is there anybody in the world that cares anymore,
anybody give them a chance, girl looks at there hands
in their pockets, wondering if change would fall out, ,

too many dream, lot of hope no where to go
no way to start
what can we do,
why doesnt anyone help us out anymore, but one thing we got is each other
