The endless years and hard luck tales
And some that have just moved on
I guess it could be envy
When I wonder what's gone wrong

Fingers point at all the problems
But that won't change my mind
I must have been held back
In hardknox school a few more times

A few more years, a few more tears
Are we the losers in the game?
When time is done and kingdom come
We'll not be losers in the game

No one ever said it's easy
To watch the world go by
Console myself by trying and trying
And trying just one more time

Put on a smile and fake your way
In through another door
But only if you have more luck
Than a thousand times before

A few more years, a few more tears
Are we the losers in the game?
When time is done and kingdom come
We'll not be losers in the game

Try again, change direction, spend more money
New horizons, what's it gonna be?
Take your hits, I hate my job, live like who?
Think like what? No, thanks, I'll just stay me

A few more years, a few more tears
Are we the losers in the game?
When time is done and kingdom come
We'll not be losers in the game

A few more years, a few more tears
Are we the losers in the game?

When time is done and kingdom come
We'll not be losers in the game
