Rituals are carried out for reasons quite unknown The fact remains you have no mind to call your own Condoned by a bible I have written for myself No duplicates, there's only one and it's on my shelf

The spell can't be broken
You all have been chosen
You're dying for me
Demoralized servant to my every need

A system of tyranny rages uncontrolled One day soon you'll find it now controls your soul Nothing's changed for many years, your dreams are run with rats They won't hesitate to rip the shirt off your back

The spell can't be broken You all have been chosen You're dying for me Demoralized servant to my every need

What will you do when your future unfolds? Life as you've know it, you'll be much too old Days of your youth were all spent in defense Memories are painful, the thoughts you resent

I know I was meant for much better things
No time to sleep so I've lost all my dreams
I look forward to nothing, I look back at the same
I'll spend my life here and deal with the pain

The choice has been made You all will be slaves Unreasonable power I mock at the suffering and grow strong by the hour

Hatred grows among the ones destined to be slaves But only life itself can lead you to your grave Lost in thoughts of what you're told to do for someone else

I don't think you're superior, you're making my life hell

The spell can't be broken You all have been chosen You're dying for me Demoralized servant to my every need
