Think me know me you're fucking right
You know me better than myself
Sick of fighting with my mind
That makes two of us
When I think I've got it right
I contradict my own insight
It's something only I can see,
Now I'm my own worst enemy
I can't beat it I always lose,
It's too quick to react
It's not that I don't want to win,
I just can't it's a fact
Now I've learned it's nothing new,
It breathes deep in me and you
The difference between me and you is I'm the one that sees

There's a voice that whispers in my ears
He knows my next move he knows my fears
This shit keeps me up at night
It's the reason I'm always in a fight

This is something that I can't ignore
You and me will never be the same as before
