Angels at my feet, asked me to take a seat
Got pulls on my hair, warns me to have a care
Mary knocks on my door asks, "Who are you looking for?"
Joseph wears a grin, tells me confess my sins

(Chorus)

Walking in the shadow of the saints
Can't live up to the visions that they paint
An idol's life is hard to twist and bend
But hopefully there will be a happy end

Father whispers in my ear, "Sacrifice is very dear"
Sister burns bright the torch, devil's eye can surely scorch
Brother beats down his fist, "Am I not on God's list?"
Magdalene bows her head, are all his teachings dead?

(Chorus)

Walking in the shadow of the saints
Can't live up to the visions that they paint
An idol's life is hard to twist and bend
But hopefully there will be a happy end
Sounds of rushing silk
Religion sucking up all our good earth's milk
We reinvent out selves to be good as gold
But who can say for a fact that it's ever saved a soul?

All I ask my town is to slowly look around
Must we seek what others have sought
Am I Judas because I get caught?
Let me plant my own seeds
Daughters put away your rosary beads
Must I be damned in hell
For not falling where others fell?

(Chorus)

Walking in the shadow of the saints
Can't live up to the visions that they paint
An idol's life is hard to twist and bend
But hopefully there will be a happy end
