As you stand lonely in front of me
The melancholy that flows from your back captivates me
I want to embrace you with a nonchalant love

Beneath your smiling face
Only unbelievable words are baring their fangs
You are looking for love in those fragments

One day, a selfish voice humming a song will reach you
And in that very moment this world is going to change

What are we going to find
By shredding time
I will be by your side
If that is gentleness

What are we going to set our eyes on?
The truth that you grabbed
By extending your hand
Let it go
Let us trust each other

The way you gaze at a spot far away
Means you're listening to the voice of your heart
And still holding the blue moon.

Your strength, shown in your will to keep on running
Will open yet another new door
Light up the night which will soon go

Even if I am alone, I want to believe in you
In that very moment this world starts to go round

What are we going to find
By spitting out our hearts
We will meet again here
If that is the truth

What are we going to set our eyes on?
The truth that you grabbed

By extending your arm
Let it go
Let us trust each other

What are we going to find
By shredding time
I will be by your side
If that is gentleness

What are we going to set our eyes on?
The truth that you grabbed
By extending your hand
Let it go
Let us trust each other
