"Only The Moon"

Keeping speed a tendency to turn around and gaze at it

Full faced won't go away so but I can not step back from it

Only the moon will be watching me tonight
When a new kinda mood is beginning inside my mind
When will be the time when I can't be alone
When after this time of thought will I be back at home

Only the moon watches me tonight
Nothing more judgemental than an ever present light Walking along a pavement so bright
Wishing I could fly away into the night

Skybound sweetness I don't want you to die
Anyone could tell you from the look in my eye
What kind of love is life gonna see right When you're off and I don't know what ascends to the sky
