I want to go and stop and stare
Why would I want to live up there?
It offers nothing much to me
But we can have fun there yearly
And when I get to my hometown
I'll tell people of where I've been
And though the old one has gone home
Well now the new one can begin

It's gonna resound!
Sounds unbelievable today!
How many miles away?
You're going to break away.

I don't know just what time it was
It's a good thing that now is gone
It's cream edges have to endure
That now it's sliding up the floor
And when I get to my hometown
I'll tell people of where I've been
And though the old one has gone home
Well now the new one can begin

You will alleviate
The time and place never the same
And you will now create
An endless time signature maze

Never the same place the same time
Make the train free give them our lives
Life won't repeat you get one try
And that is now and now's the time

I used to go and stop and stare
Why did I want to live up there
It offered nothing much to me
But we could have fun there yearly
When I went to my hometown
I told people of where I'd been
And then the old one had gone home
So that the new one could begin

Rory lives near Kidderminster
I am from central Worcestershire
I want to go there sometime, back there next time
Making it a yearly thing.
