I've Fallen

Written by TW

I'm feeling like I never should have opened up Cause sometimes I'm better off leaving my big mouth shut & not say so much
I'm pleasing you by musing you, it don't take much
You're intertwined in my crazy mind, more than the rest
So I've said, from the things I've learned in you

I've fallen

I've fallen in love

I've fallen, while the world keeps spinnin around

You tell me simple minds are amused by simple things, there's nothing new
So why is my sky so blue, is it true that you love me like
I love you

So who are you to tell me these things may not be true
Then who are you to say
When you never look away past your front door
To see the love you're waiting for

I've found the love you're looking for
I know the love you're dying for Yeah the world keeps spinnin while I keep falling

The world keeps spinnin while I keep falling
The world keeps spinnin while I keep falling in love
