New York got my call
My name and numbers on each wall
In that town where every block looks the same
I'm moving on, for something better today

LA sounds so great
Where the people and weather never change
So I took my chance in hand for the cause
To never put my life on pause

I'm just a boy looking for my home
Trying to live wherever on my own
Torn in two, falling here and there
I'm just a boy running anywhere
I'm just a boy looking everywhere

Past the hills and painted lights
Thrown webs have blinded my sight
But now I see you're trying to hide
That we're all just the boy if you'd look inside
I'm just a boy looking for my home
Trying to live wherever on my own
Torn in two, falling here and there
I'm just a boy running anywhere
I'm just a boy looking everywhere

With my feet off the ground
Wondering if I'll ever be found

Now I know what I've always seen
You're more like me than you'd ever believe

I'm just a boy looking for my home
Trying to live wherever on my own
Torn in two, falling here and there
I'm just a boy running anywhere
I'm just a boy headed somewhere
I'm just a boy searching out there
I'm just a boy looking everywhere
