I just sit and count the pieces of what used to be my heart
And each day the pain increases since we're apart
As I stand amidst the ruin I can see my one mistake
When you fall as hard as I did something has to break
I have spent my time in heaven in the world of your embrace
But you're gone and now I'm lifted by other place
I keep wishing I was dreaming but I know I'm wide awake
And when you fall as hard as I did something has to break
No one else could love you better but that's not enough
I know
Though the rain falls in the desert nothing will grow Even though my world's been shuttered I accept it as my fate
When you fall as hard as I did something has to break
When you fall as hard as I did something has to break
