"Somewhere Soft To Land"

No ones around you to see when a teardrops fall
And no one can hear when you cry theres no sound at all

No one can tell I'm broken
No words were spoken
Truth is I'm fragile

I gotta find me somewhere soft to land, don't you see
If I crash this heart of glass we'll be
In a million little pieces turn into sand
Unless I find me somewhere soft to land

If only I could catch your eye on the autumn wind
Don't care where I go
Just don't take me to where I've been Somewhere where sun shines trough the rain
Life can start again
Truth is I'm fragile

I gotta find me somewhere soft to land, don't you see
If I crash this heart of glass we'll be
In a million little pieces turn into sand
Don't know how I'll ever love again
Unless I find me somewhere soft to land

I'm not to strong to shatter
Insides what matter
I'm fragile

I gotta find me somewhere soft to land, don't you see
If I crash this heart of glass we'll be
In a million little pieces turn into sand
Don't know how I'll ever love again
Unless I find me somewhere soft to land
