Daddy's little girl ain't coming home tonight, you've sunk your teeth in and I'm not breathing. Aren't you the one who laid down because you're better on your back.

Like a parasite you choose your victims in their weakest states, oh oh, I'd applaud you but you never want to stay. All on our own, we'll make some beautiful mistakes.

Daddy's little girl ain't coming home tonight, she'll be lucky if she makes it out alive.

So pray, hold tight and pretend to look alive.

I know you meant well baby but I think we both agree in the ground you're better off it was either you or me.

In this bed where we lie I've torn you from the inside out and I promise no one can hear your cry, so before we end this one last lust goodbye.

You play little red and I'll play the wolf.
