(Words and music by Dorcas Cochran and Harold Grant)

Here, in this enchanted place;
Here, enclosed in your embrace.
Here with you so near to me;
Here is where I want to be.
The world outside may be thrilled by
The treasures that people buy for gold,
But I would rather be thrilled by
The trasures that I alone can hold.
Here, beside the warmth of you,
Here, within a dream for two.
Here, for all eternity;
Here is where I want to be.
