

Tory Cottingham

"A Fond Farewell Before You Go"

Visit "A Fond Farewell Before You Go" on MotoLyrics.com

You're taking your first step like it's the last one
That you will ever have;
You're counting the stars up late 'til midnight Â–
You wonder where they go.
If only I could write a letter in pictures just this time,
I'd say 'Sweetie, don't you cry now, '
And wipe your tears away.

I wish I could take your nightmares,
And make them disappear.
I hope your curiosity and trust never go to waste.
If a big black cloud comes down to scare you
And take away your dreams,
I just can't let that happen to you.

I know that everything burns beautifully now.
You'll see that the lights in life can only shine for you.
I saw a face in the clouds last night,
And I thought of you.

Morning comes, but I still haven't slept,
Thinking about what I've done.
And how a little life can be affected by every single word.
I hope one day you will remember me and smile,
And I'll come back to life through you.

Visit Tory Cottingham page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.