If it's true from the start
That the name of those we love are written on our heart
And we search 'til we find
In this jungle of confusion something that reminds us
How we love each other

Then I think I've found the clue
Because I'm certain I remember you.

Through my window I see
How the seasons change like notes with instant harmony
But the love in our eyes
Is a endless summer, is a joy that magnifies
Each time we touch each other
And it feels like deja vu
As my heart reveals that I remember you

Day after day, I'm amazed how our love intensifies
In every way, it resembles forever /
Abandons us never

Like the sunlight that shines, like the fragrance of the rose
No single world defines
We are tuned to the sound
That displays creation that our life revolves around
That searching for each other
From a million hearts we choose
You remember me and I remember you

Day after day, I'm amazed how our love intensifies
In every way, it resembles forever /
Abandons us never

A chorus of sparrows in summer
That's how I remember you
The fire of maples in autumn
That's how I remember you
The silence of snowfall in winter,

That's how I remember you
A chorus of sparrows in summer
That's how I remember you
The fire of maples in autumn
That's how I remember you
The silence of snowfall in winter
That's how I remember you
